Objectives should be specific 'target' for which you are marketing your skills and experience, not vague, unfocused statements. Some resumes do not need an objective if they already portray a focus. See ICC Coordinators for advice.

OBJECTIVE: Summer internship in Food Science

OBJECTIVE: Summer internship using my education in Food Science

OBJECTIVE: Summer internship building upon my education and experience in Food Science

OBJECTIVE: Summer food science internship

OBJECTIVE: Summer food science internship with Blue Diamond Growers

OBJECTIVE: Summer food science internship with an international food processor

OBJECTIVE: Summer food science internship that is work-study eligible

OBJECTIVE: Entry level career position in marketing

OBJECTIVE: Career position in marketing

OBJECTIVE: Marketing position with Tony's Fine Foods

OBJECTIVE: Marketing position using my business and marketing education and experience

OBJECTIVE: Marketing position in an international food processing company

OBJECTIVE: Part-time marketing work-study position in UC Davis office

Here is an alternative to Objective. Best used when you have a clear set of skills you are marketing. Not to be used for those with limited skills/experience/work history. See ICC Coordinators for advice.
